New Organ To Be Used In Recital On Friday

Miss Mary Parmenter, who will take part in the concert to be given at the First Congregational Church Friday evening.

The new organ at the First Congregational church is near completion, the pastor, Rev. Godfrey Matthews said today. The organ was ordered eighteen months ago, and was three months in shipment. The instrument was made by the Hallett Organ Company of New Haven, Conn., and is a fine example of the art of organ building. It has four manuals, and is equipped with a complete set of stops. The organ will be used in the recital given by Miss Mary Parmenter on Friday evening.

ELECTIONS IN U. S. GREATLY INTEREST MEXICAN POPULACE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 2.—More interest was created here by the American elections than by the elections held in Mexico last September, when General Alvaro Obregon was chosen president. There was a reception at the American club and all foreign clubs held open house.

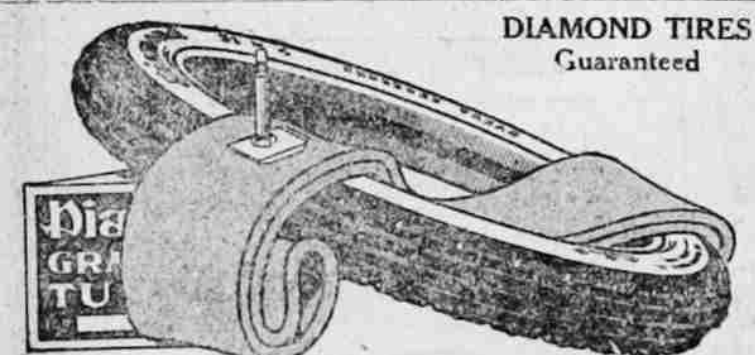

For the first time in the city's history newspapers employed open air screens to flush the progress of the balloting.

LOUISIANA GIVES REMARKABLE VOTE TO SEN. HARDING

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 3.—Senator Harding polled the unprecedented total of 17,090 in the state of Louisiana with five of the 127 precincts missing. He carried ten known country parishes, apparently an easy victory in the Third congressional district and eight city precincts, mostly in the uptown residence section, gave him majorities.

NEW MUSIC IN REVIEW

CARUSO GIVES IMMORTAL LIFE TO DREAMS OF SPAIN

Other World-Famed Artists Heard
In New and Delightful
Numbers

There is no singer whose voice and methods are so familiar to the world at large as Enrico Caruso. He has a spell about him that even the well-to-do of our childhood take on new life and vigor at his first note. Such will be the verdict of those who hear him in his most recent Victor recordings. It is just the type of music that shows to the best advantage the great tenor's lyric powers. "Granada"—the very name is evocative of the spell of beauty that has fallen for centuries about that last stronghold of the Moors in many-castled Spain. As one listens to the dazzling rhythms, the long-drawn, full-throated phrases one receives an impression that is consummately beautiful and realizes that here is the purest genius.

Another great artist, this time instrumental, is Sergei Rachmaninoff, who has this month offered us his own Prelude in G Major (Op. 23, No. 5). True lovers of music cannot fail to be stirred, for here the great pianist has revealed a new side, which if suspected has been perhaps obscured by the more vigorous rhythms and passions of his earlier records. This rendition begins with a clear, tender, liquid melody; repeats with embellishments in the title and ends in new and unexpected forms, as though spiritualized by beauties of experience. Rightly has Rachmaninoff called it a "Prelude"—for if you but listen well it leads gently to a train of thought that endures long after the last notes have faded away to nothingness.

Even a rascal may suffer the pangs of memory. The truth of this is made clear in Leoncavallo's "Zaza," where, in "Zaza, Piccola Zingara," Dufrene, the lover, pours out his heart in a torrent of love and remorse. Renato Zanelli has depicted this difficult interpretation and the result has been triumphantly successful. His clear, full-throated baritone soars high above the accompaniment with all of the fire and glow of his maturing art. As for the music itself, it has all of the melodic quality of the older Italian operatic arias, to which has been added modern harmonics.

Quite different in nature is "When Your Ship Comes In," a charming little ballad that has been entrusted to Gracie Harlow. That this great singer would make a distinction between the two would be the conclusion of his many admirers, but even they will listen to this new record as to a revelation of powers almost beyond the scope of the human voice. Into this seemingly simple song the singer has infused some of the great open spaces of the sea, something of the tossing billows and the wind of the trade winds. It is a song for a sailor's heart, a song of promise and of hope. There is a fine melodic interlude, too, for the united trumpets accompanied by full orchestra.

In thorough harmony with the foregoing is another lovely ballad which gains in effect from its very simplicity. It is "Ever of Thee I'm Fondly Dreaming," and as a result we have something that is a masterpiece of art. Here are slow, brooding melodies sung with a human sympathy that is far finer, far truer than is conscious art. Perhaps the most beautiful effects are secured when Miss Braslow's voice sinks to a soft and velvety pianissimo.

Fritz Kreisler Touches New Heights of Art

An interpretation by Kreisler is always a matter of import but doubly so is the appearance amidst the new Victor Records for November of his brilliant rendition of the "Chant Indien." This work takes on added importance when one realizes that through the medium of music one is given a glimpse of the Indies seen through the introspective eyes of a Russian. Singular harmonies and wonderful and wonderful passages flit behind and you, shunt-like, and are held together by the skilled mastery of Kreisler's fingers and the result is a work of art that makes such beauty real.

When we settle in our seats to listen to the melting voice of Galli-Curci, we know in advance that now will come a treat—that for a few minutes at least the world may be left behind and that our souls can delight in the splendid gift of song that is being offered. So it is when we hear her sing "Clavellitos," a Spanish melody—color, aura, lyric and poetic to the highest degree. It is difficult to realize that human throat can enunciate such swift flying notes, yet thick and fast, great diva pours forth a bewitching succession of magic tones that cause the heart to beat fiercely to this love-declaration of old Spain.

"Thank God for a Garden!" This is the title of John McCormack's most recent offering, and as his masculine notes ring out the hearer can but echo "amen." Here, indeed, is a rare and beautiful song, sung with an artistic certainty and sureness that will not allow to awake latent enthusiasm in even those breasts least susceptible to music. This song is nature itself, nature made superlatively real and brought home to the consciousness of all. The world at large owes a great debt of thanks to John McCormack for this soul-stirring record.

SEVERE STORM IN SO. DAKOTA CUTS ALL WIRE SERVICE

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 3.—Telephone and telegraph lines between this city and points in northern and western South Dakota are completely severed as a result of Monday's storm. Many miles of wire and poles are down. Linemen have been unable to re-establish communication thus far.

An accompaniment of ravishing tones of Frances Alda's voice—then the clear, bird-like sweet and flute-like into the harmonies of "The Wages of Minnetonka." It is an old Indian legend and even without the words the great artist could make plain its haunting mystery. As in a dream one is enabled to see a vision of those long dead forest lovers, who, these many years have slept beneath the surface of the silent pool. One need not be a musician to give oneself to the spell of this song; it is as pure and sweet as the frosty air of the North woods.

New Victor Dances Are Sure Fire Hits

Paul Whiteman and his Ambassador Orchestra have already worked wonders in the dance world—therefore he is to be found on the exclusive list of Victor artists and makes his bow on November's list of new records. What he gives us are three wonderful fox-trots and an inspiring medley one-step, "Whispering." The Japanese Sandman and "Avalon" are the fox-trots, and they're the kind that won't be forgotten in a hurry. "Best Ever" is the one-step and it's well named! These records will be responsible for a lot of dancing this winter—you can't help liking them.

Memory is certain in their appeal, and Elsie Baker sings one of the very best when she sings "The Afterglow." It is a song in the modern style with modern harmonies and emotional type, but is not one whit more appealing than is "Drowsy Boy," sung by Elsie Baker and Olive Kline. Here we have a lullaby—and just such a one as will delight thousands of American mothers.

Gabriella Besanzoni Sings Gem From Trovatore

Written in a minor key and dealing only with the tragic side of things, "Stride la vampa" (Pierce Placens) are exciting and the most frankly tuneful of Italian operatic melodies. In selecting it as her contribution to the new Victor Records for November, Gabriella Besanzoni has done well. It is set for the deeper register of the contralto voice, descending to a low B, which the singer takes with splendid, thrilling power; one gets the impression of unity and completeness. There can be no doubt as to Besanzoni's rightful place in the vanguard of high musical art. Had she not long before demonstrated her right, this record would have placed it beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Out of the most delicately and exclusively poetic records Mischka Litman has made is the "Necture" (Op. 24, No. 4) by Edward Greg which Mr. Litman has himself arranged for the violin. In his interpretation the artist also rises to a new level of heights. The composition is pure fantasy—strong on a thread of gossamer-like harmonics.

The famous love duet from "Fedora" has been rendered this month by Edward Johnson—the "Amor vici di non amor." It is a duet of the most delicate and beautiful kind, and has been rendered with a high standard of art. The composition is pure fantasy—strong on a thread of gossamer-like harmonics.

In the ever-popular realm of the ballad Lambert Murphy has always an enthusiastic following which cannot but be largely by the success that will undoubtedly meet his "Wages of Minnetonka" and "I Can't Sleep Without You." Both songs have their origin in popular music, but are so well adapted to the human voice and so well rendered that they are a joy to hear.

Month after month the Victor Records are issued and always there is an advance in quality and appeal—a fact that is recognized by true music lovers. The records for this month are well worthy of a hearing, and any Victor dealer will be ready to play them for you or all of them.

Election returns from less than two hundred precincts received last night by wireless, courier and round-about telegraph lines indicate South Dakota has shared in the Republican landslide.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—H. R. Bosley, Dallas, Tex., divorced husband of Mrs. R. C. Peete, indicted here for the alleged murder of Jacob Charles Denton, offered, in a telegram received by District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine, to come to Los Angeles to testify at the trial of Mrs. Peete. Bosley and Mrs. Peete were divorced in 1912, Mr. Woolwine said.

REFUSED BALLOT, NEGRO SLAYS TWO; FLORIDA MOB ACTS

ORLANDO, Fla., Nov. 3.—A negro named Perry, who shot and killed two men at Ocoee after he had been refused a vote, was lynched early today outside the corporate limits of Orlando. He was hanged to a tree and his body riddled with bullets.

Election officials said Perry was refused a vote because he had not paid his poll tax. He returned to the voting place last night with a shotgun and opened fire on white men, killing two, one a veteran of the world war, and wounding several others, not seriously. Perry was arrested and later was taken from the officers by a mob.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel
Backache or Have Bladder
Trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Advertisement.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It
Brings Back Its Beautiful
Lustre At Once.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two its natural color is restored, and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.
